MAYSVILLE, KY., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1905.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

GOAT VISITIN'.

"Don't out no figger with Duncan what folks sez about family spats; I ain't got no time for a back-fer, or old maid with courtesies an' oaks; It may be the marriage ain't restful an' some-times th' babies is thick A sudden to duties an' sorrows an' multiplied cares when they're sick! But gimme th' many heart throbbings that spring from a union of love— I guess that they ain't nothin' goin' that matches th' 'ceptin' above! My gal she went visitin' lately an' tuck all th' joy from my face— Why, darn it, this here little dove-cote ain't nuthin' now-days but a 'place!' A place to sit in an' git lonesome an' wish that yer loved uns was back! Th' rooms is all darkened an' solemn, th' chairs is all pushed in a stack! Ye've cum from yer work uninvited; th' kitchen is hot as a den! Ain't no one, not even th' grocer, has been there since we-uns has been! Th' walls escape an' cracks like dreation—you never have knowed it afore— While payers an' ashes an' matches is scattered all over th' floor! You move along inter th' bedroom an' 'low that you'll sleep and forget— Right over there, in th' corner is where baby's shoes allus set! They're there, too, by cracky—the old uns; the new ones she wear with her ma. You reach fer them shoes and you wonder if baby is thinkin' o' pa! It's then that a great wad of something cums up in yer throat and ye choke To git out yer pipe and terbacker and pour out yer sorrow in smoke! No it don't cut no figger with Duncan what folks sez about marriage ties— I reckon that 'bout half that's goin' is nothin' no-how but jest lies! I'm married and proud o' th' title—although I'm seem lonely tonight! Tomorrow they'll cum with ther' lafter a blessin' th' home with ther' light! Hello, here's a telegraph message—Cum in—don't stand waitin' outside! My God, I hope nothin' ain't happened my gal an' my baby, my pride! A wreck on th' Illinois ryer; we're safe but delayed for a day! Signed 'Bally'—Here, boy, is a quarter; jest run along now an' be gay! Safet Safe! an' a comin' home happy—Oh, jest let me git that thar shoe An' hug it, an' kiss it, an' love it—They're comin' to 'Pap' an' 't' you!"

The pay-wagon on the L. and N. was in last night.

Everybody welcome at Derach's. Rabbit feast tonight.

Spence Kimbrough, the untamed and rancorous colored man, got on another rampage yesterday. He was collared by Policeman Ryan and yanked to jail where he belongs.

John Scudder and John Brown had their examining trials before Judge Whitaker yesterday afternoon. The former was acquitted and Brown was held in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the next term of the Circuit Court, and in default was committed to jail.

Do you want the best Real Estate Agency in the state located in Maysville? If so help me to make mine such. Nothing will do more to develop our city than a first-class, all-round, wide-awake, up-to-date real estate dealer. Will you give me your support and business? JOHN DULEY.

Some three hundred guests responded to the invitations to the reception given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. David Frances Frazer at her home in Lexington. It was a beautiful celebration of the thirty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frazer. Mrs. W. E. McCann assisted the hostess in receiving and entertaining.

The funeral of the late Robert G. Lynn was largely attended from the residence of his nephew, Mr. R. K. Hoeslich, at 2 o'clock last afternoon. There were a number in attendance from Cincinnati, Chicago, Lexington and elsewhere, and the floral offerings were the most imposing ever seen in this city. Whatever else may be said of "Bob" Lynn, he never sought an advantage over any human being, and his charities were of the broadest and most impartial type.

SLIGHT FIRE

Fifth Ward Residence of Mr. James Downey Visited Yesterday

The alarm of fire yesterday between 11 and 12 o'clock was caused by a blaze in the second story front room at the residence of Mr. James Downey at the corner of Commerce and Second streets.

The fire was first noted by a four-year-old tot informing its mother that the room was full of dust.

On investigation Mrs. Downey discovered the blaze and gave the alarm.

While the fire companies responded promptly and rendered aid, the fire was really subdued by "Happy Jack," a colored employee at Mathews's Sawmill, who attached a garden hose to a hydrant and by placing a ladder against the wall of the building played on the flames through a window from the outside.

There is no definite knowledge as to the origin of the fire.

It started in a dresser containing a box of matches, and the best solution is that mice did the business.

There was considerable damage from water, and the dresser and contents were entirely destroyed.

Mr. Downey was fully insured.

INCREASING BUSINESS

How the C. and O. is "Spreading Out" in Maysville

THE LEDGER is indebted to Colonel W. W. Wiloff, Agent of the C. and O. in this city, for a statement of the local passenger and freight business of his road for the year 1905, compared with what it was in 1897, in which year the freight business was conducted at the L. and N. Depot.

	Passenger.	Freight.	Total.
1905.....	$56,237.38	$87,623.53	$143,860.91
1897.....	42,155.88	38,066.87	80,222.75
Increase.....	$14,081.50	$49,556.66	$63,638.16

Query—How many stagecoaches and road wagons would it take to handle this volume of business? Will some "kicker" please figure it out?
